

"Excuse Me, Have You Seen the Spider?"

by:

Kapuameliaklani

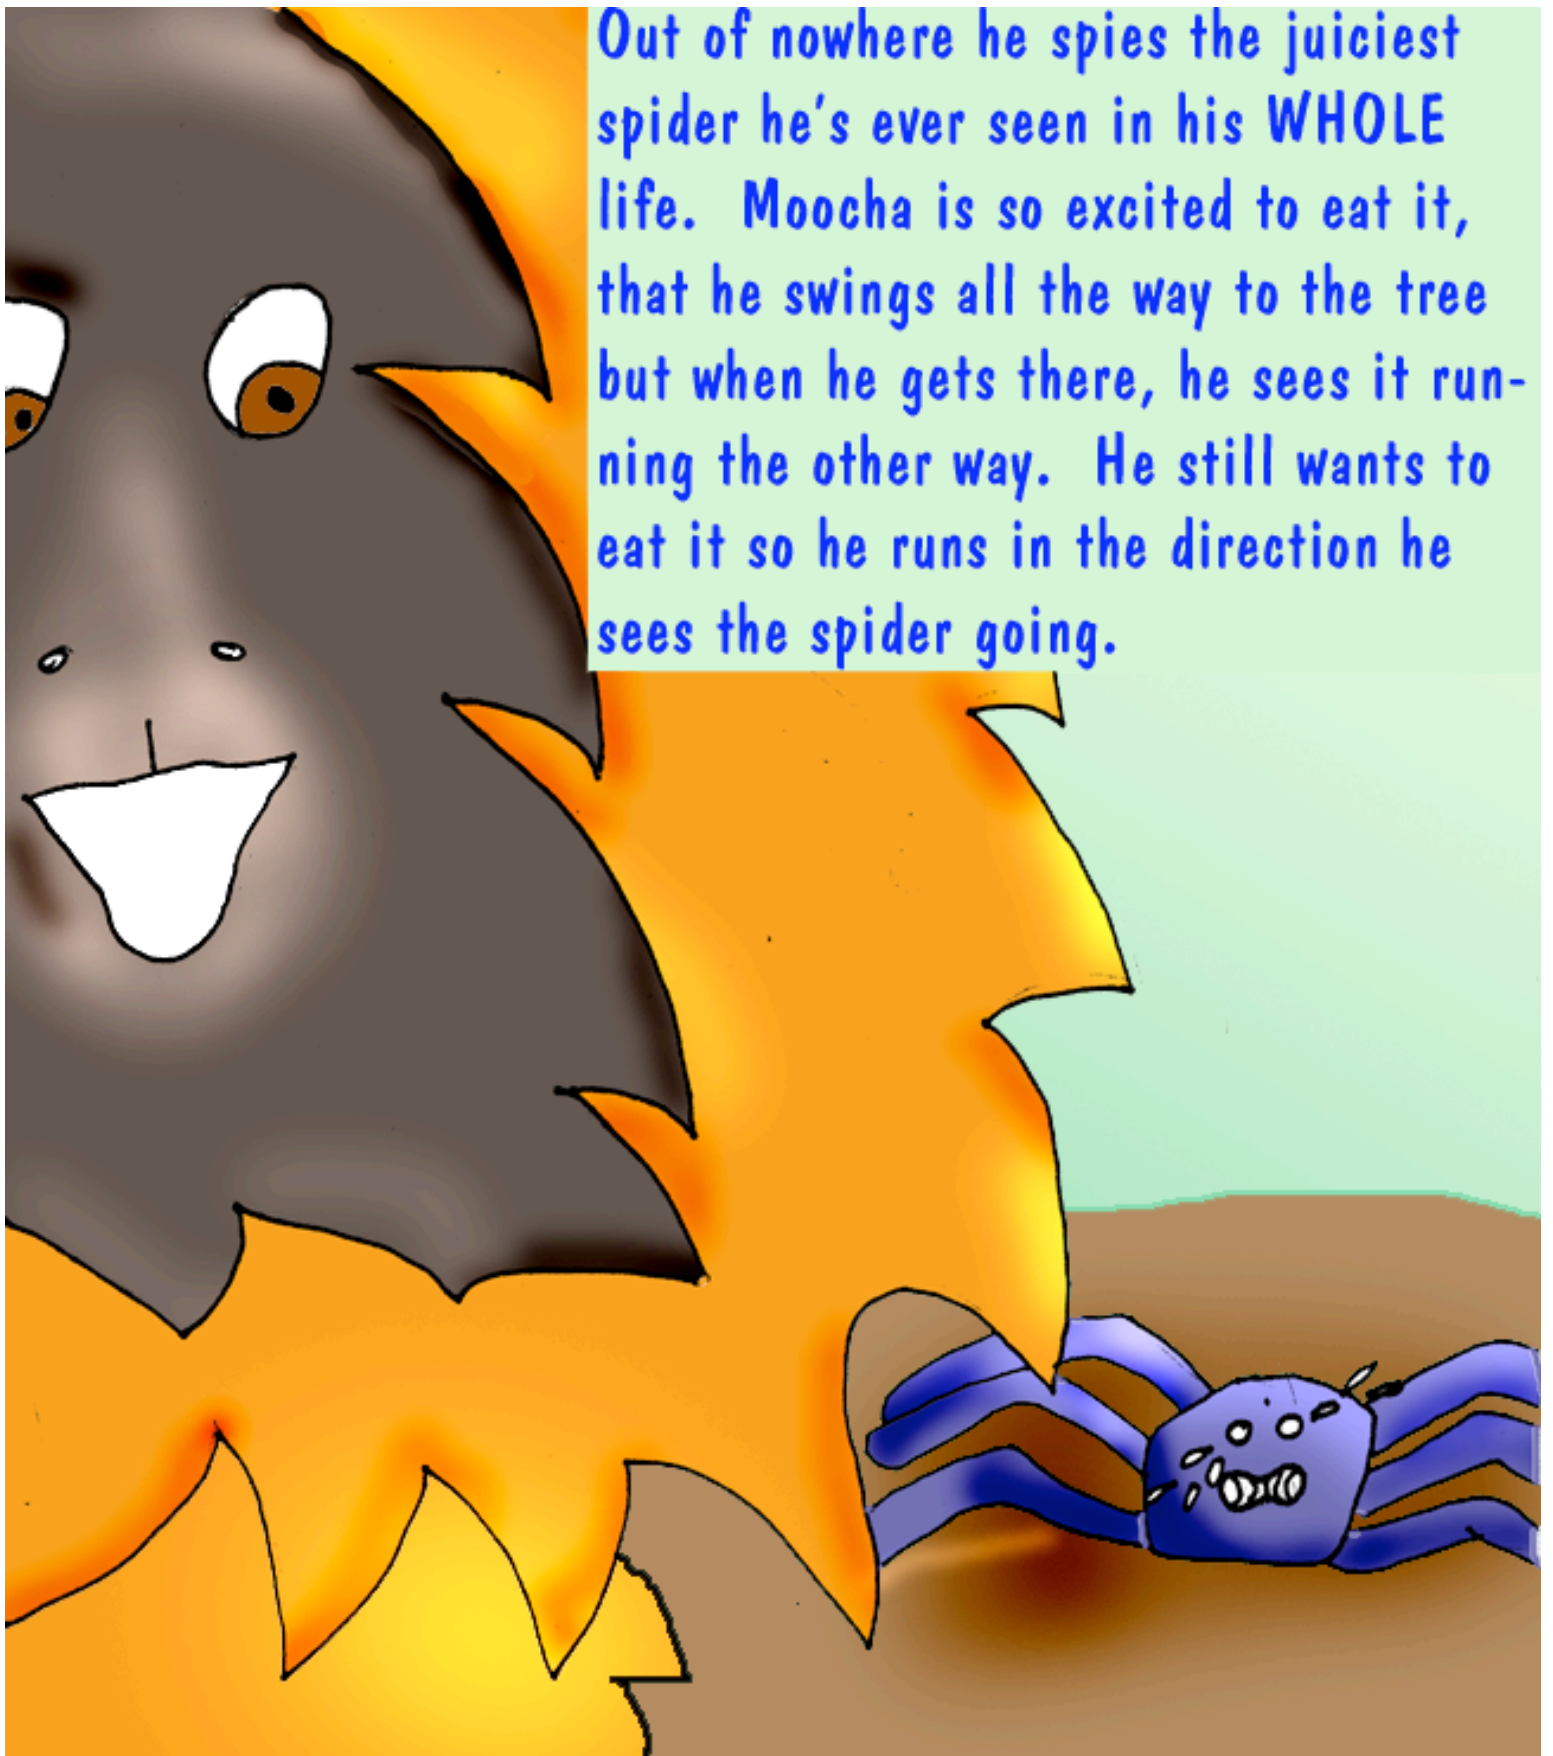

Simpkins

Moocha the golden lion tamarin is on his daily tree swing. His golden fur can be seen throughout the whole Amazon.

Out of nowhere he spies the juiciest spider he's ever seen in his WHOLE life. Moocha is so excited to eat it, that he swings all the way to the tree but when he gets there, he sees it running the other way. He still wants to eat it so he runs in the direction he sees the spider going.

While he follows it he sees his friend Lola the toucan.
He asks Lola "excuse me, did you see the spider?"

Lola replies, "yes, yes I did. He went that way" "thanks Lola" Moocha says, and heads off into that direction.

While he follows the spider, he runs into Brady the sloth. He asks Brady and asks, "Excuse me, did you see the spider?" Brady answered "Yes, yes I did. He went that way." Brady thanks Brady" Moocha happily answers and continues his quest towards the juicy spider.

Moocha noisily jumps through the Amazon looking for this spider, when he nearly runs into Mr. Big, the rainforests' biggest anaconda, who has a taste for golden lion tamarins.

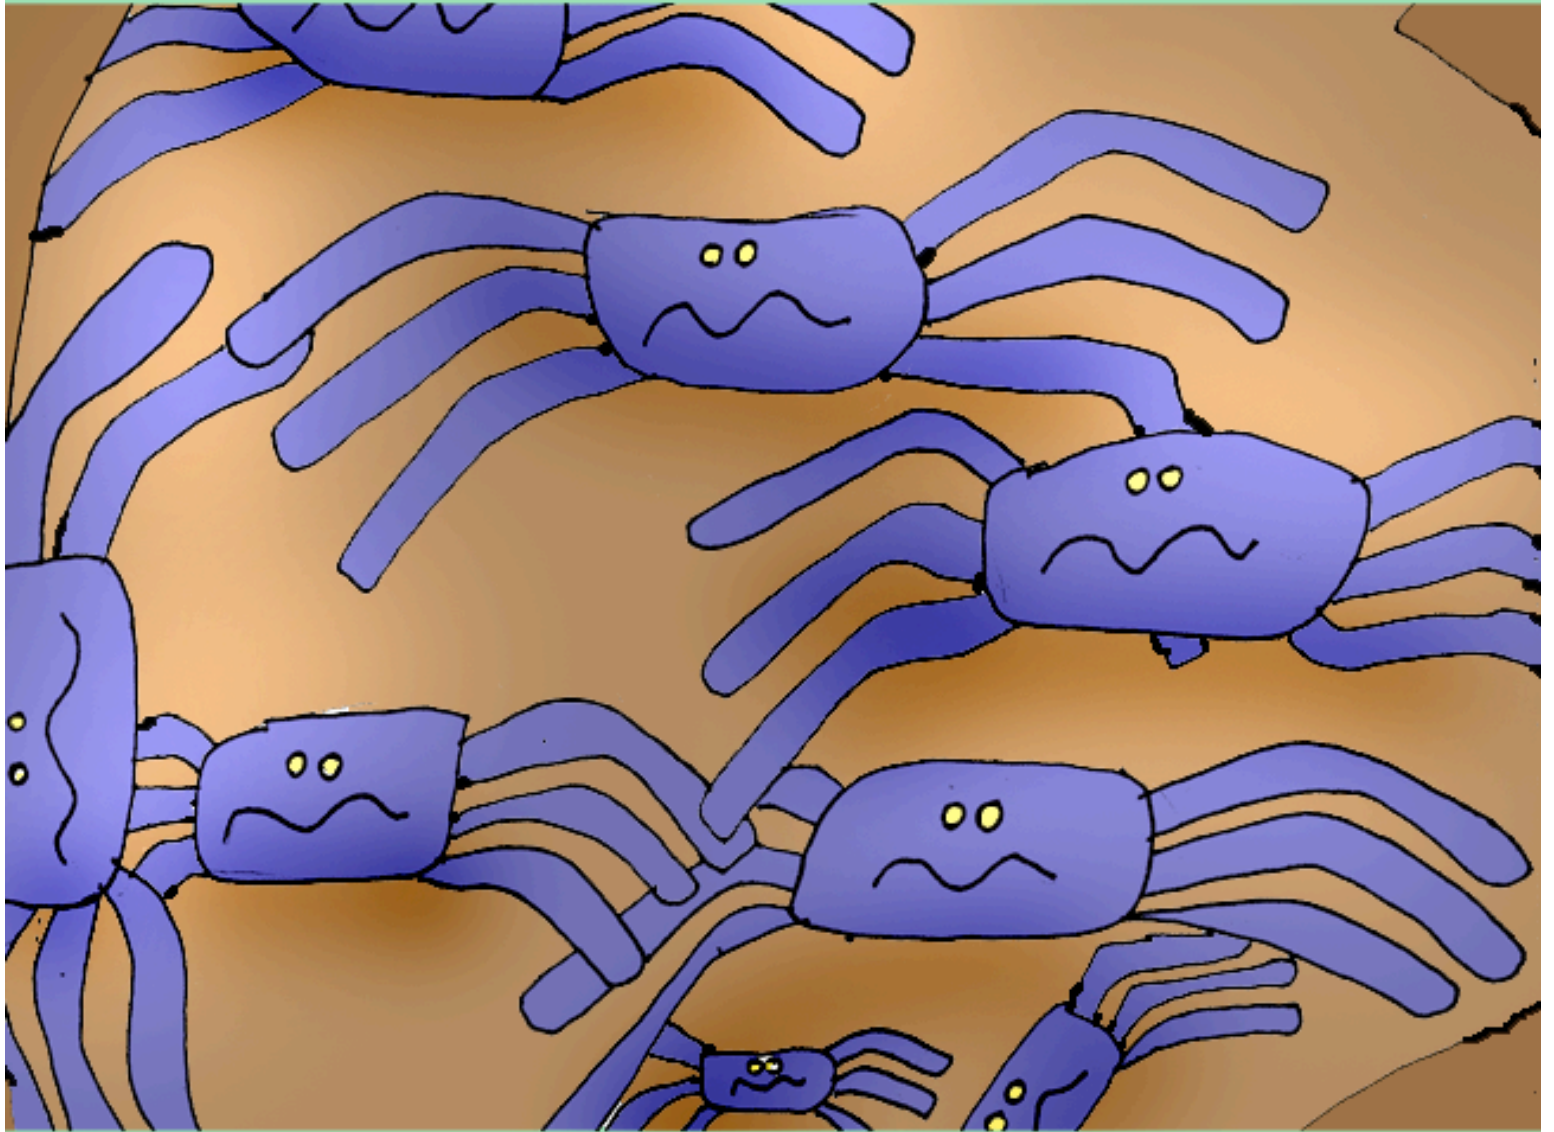

Moocha stops himself and has to sneak around the HUGE sleeping snake. He steps on a branch and makes a small noise, but Mr. Big doesn't move an inch. Moocha is safe.

Moocha sees the spider from a distance and RUNS as fast as he can to it. The spider crawls into the bark of the tree, but Moocha uses his LONG fingers to peel off the bark.

Moocha is surprised to see HUNDREDS of juicy spiders crawling in the tree!

Moocha eats them all up and is happier than ever (: