

How Mother Earth Became Happy Again

by: Sierra Keolanui

“Uh-oh I feel really sick, I should call Electroman.”

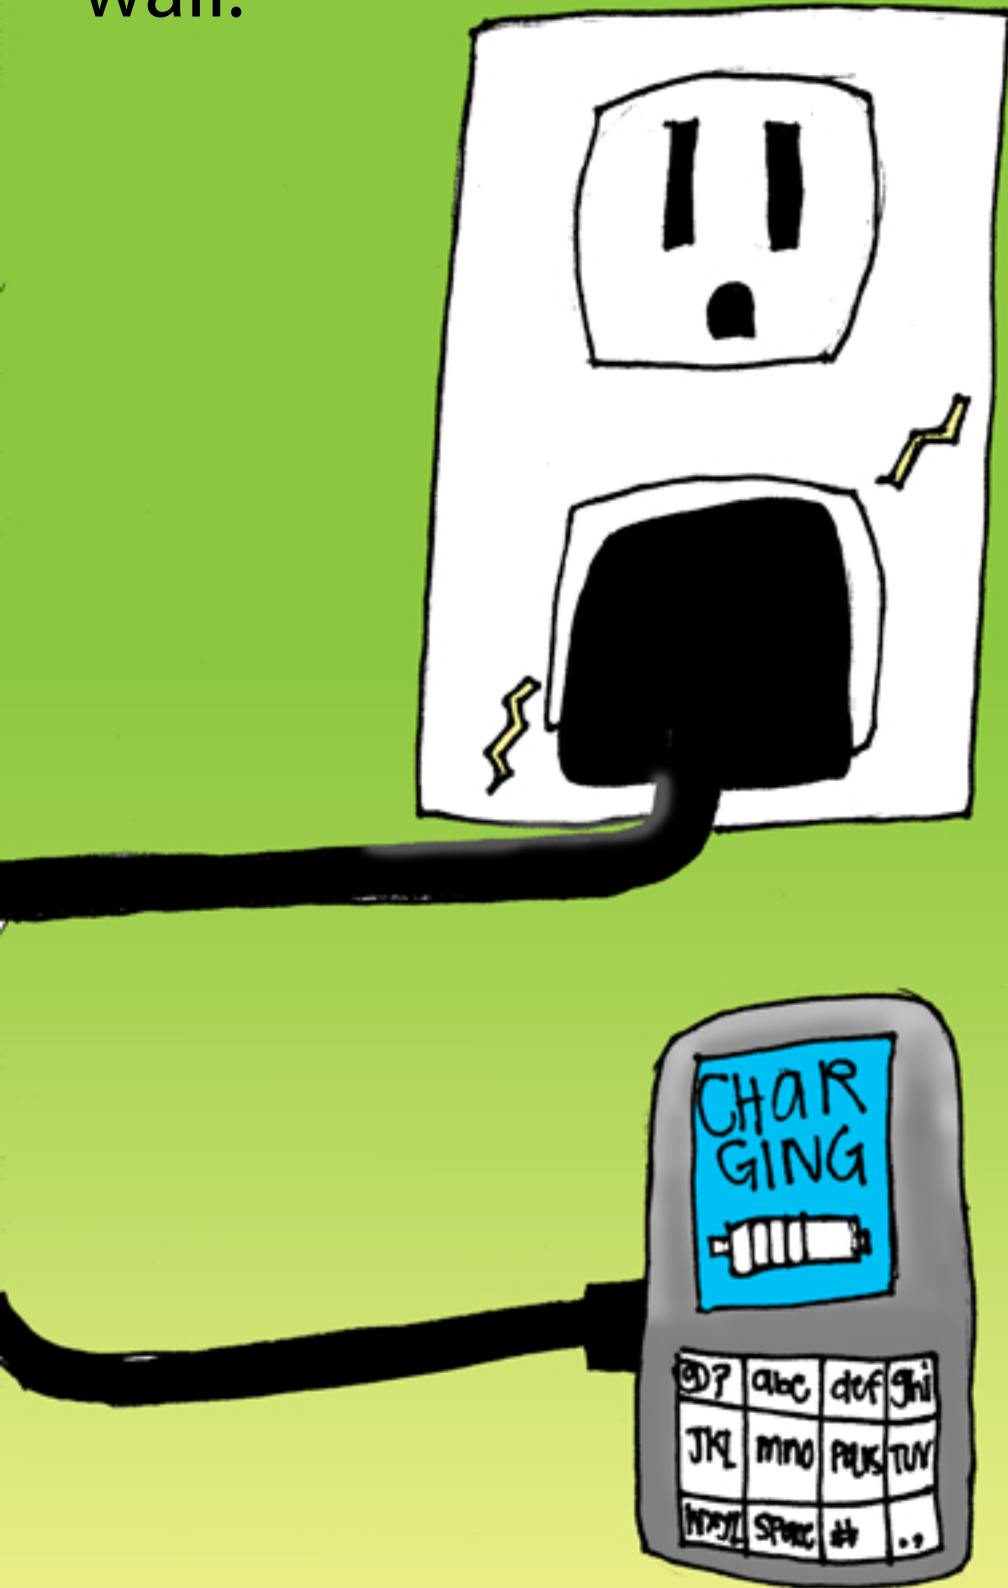

“Hello I’m Electroman, what can I do for you?” “Well I feel really sick and I thought that you could help me replied Mother Earth.” “I’m on my way said Electroman.”

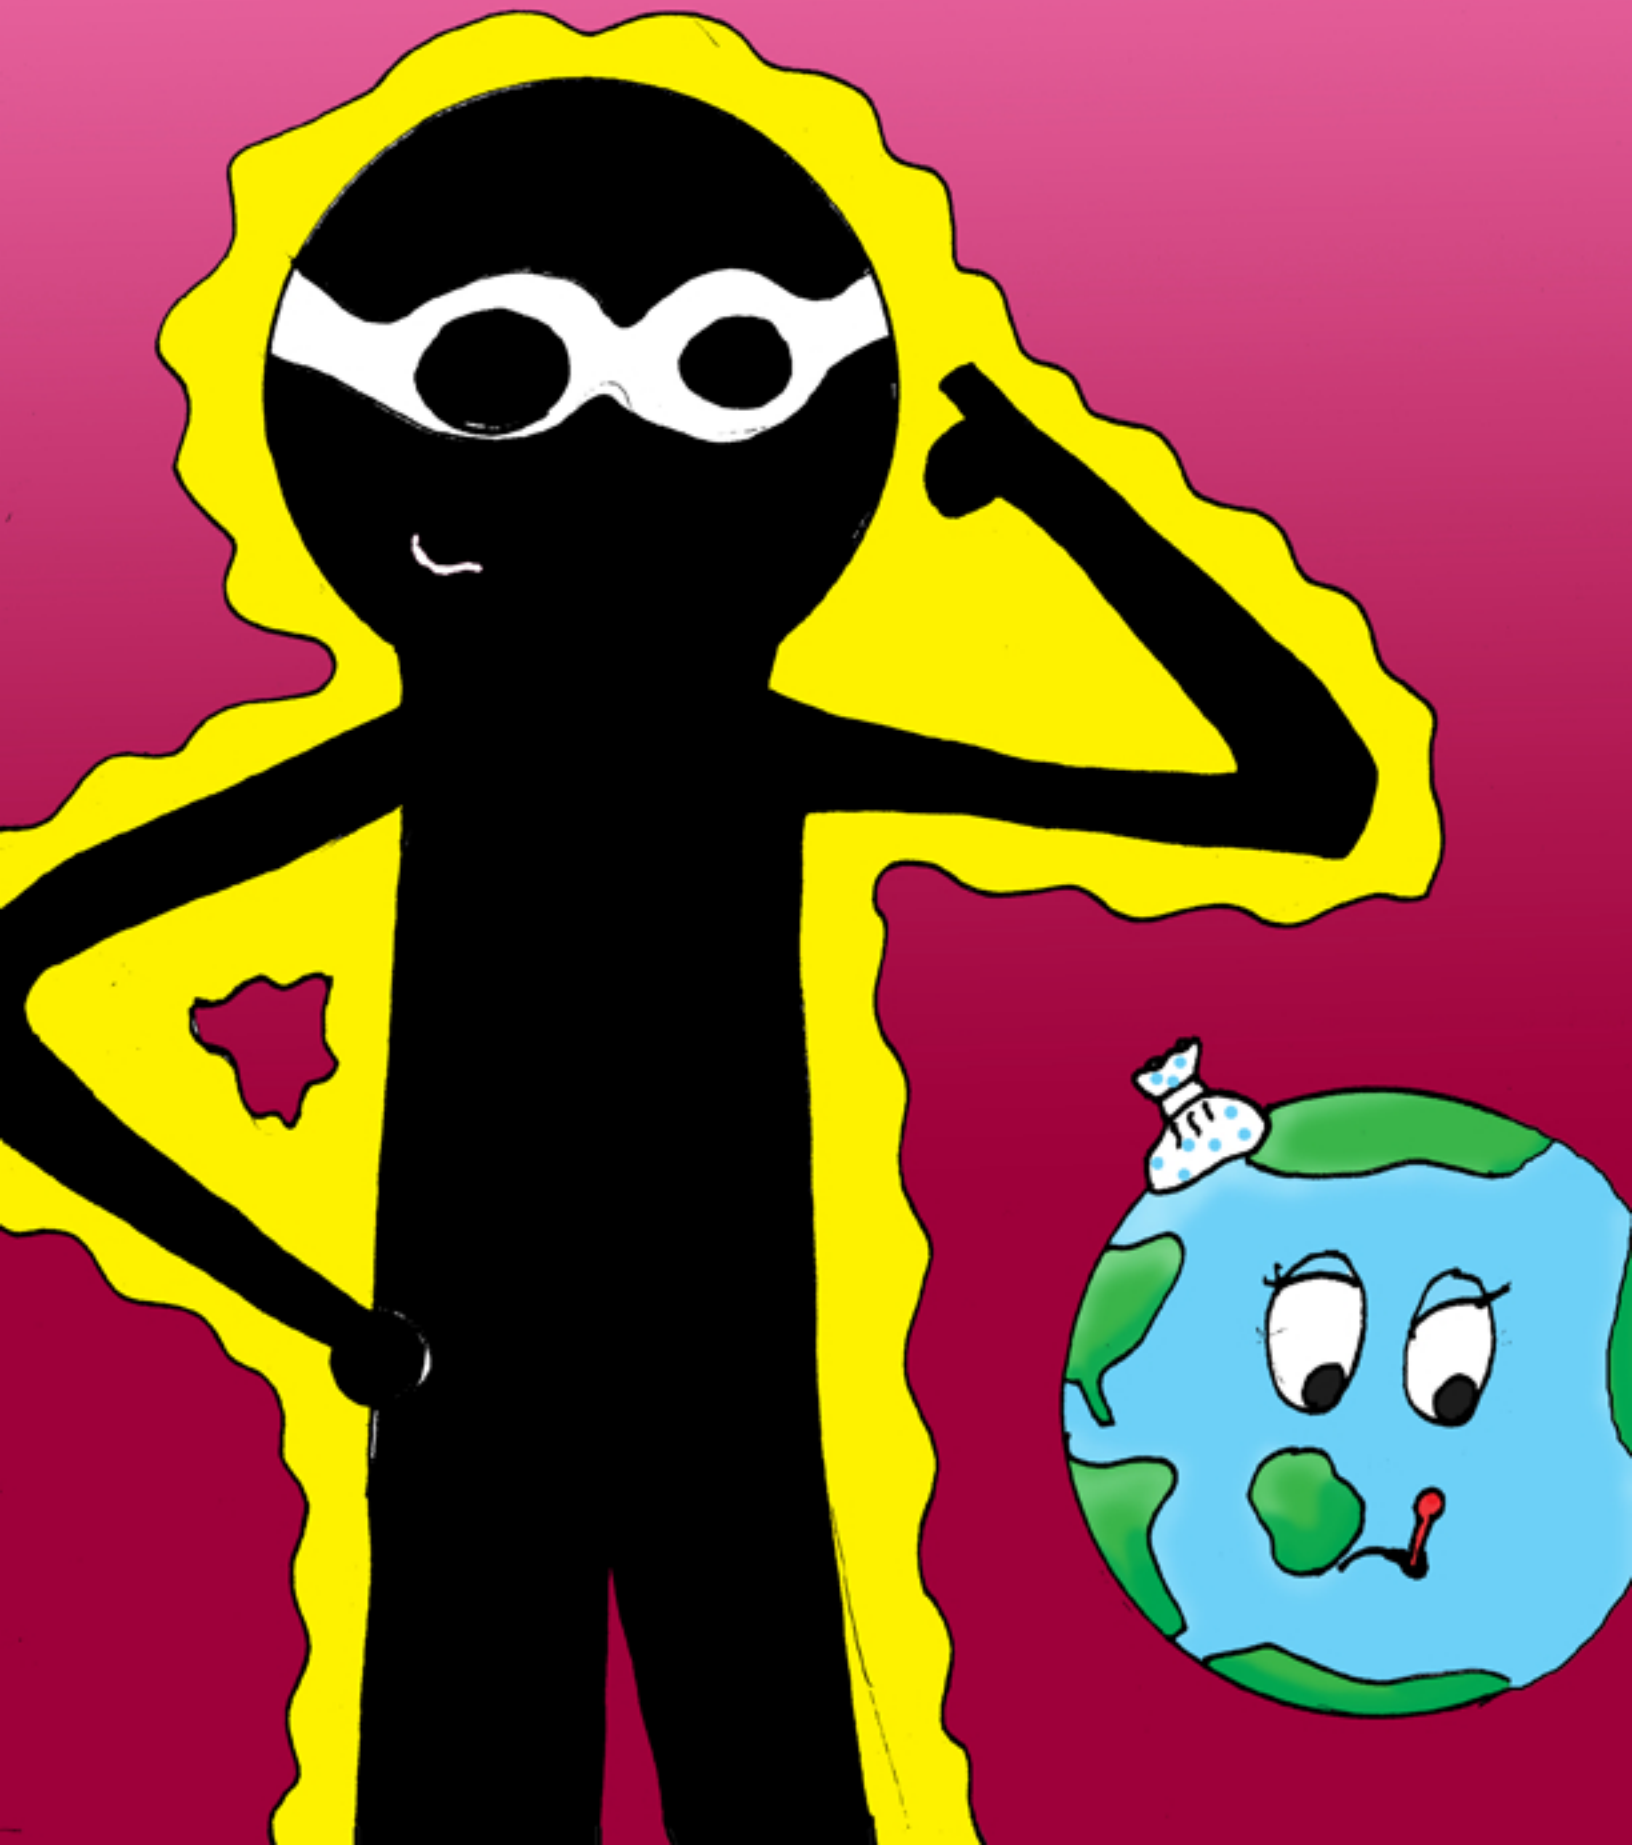

“Well after running some tests, I know what your problem is, you are very gassy. And because of your excessive gasses, it’s making you sick” said Electro-man. “Well how did I get so gassy?” asked Mother Earth

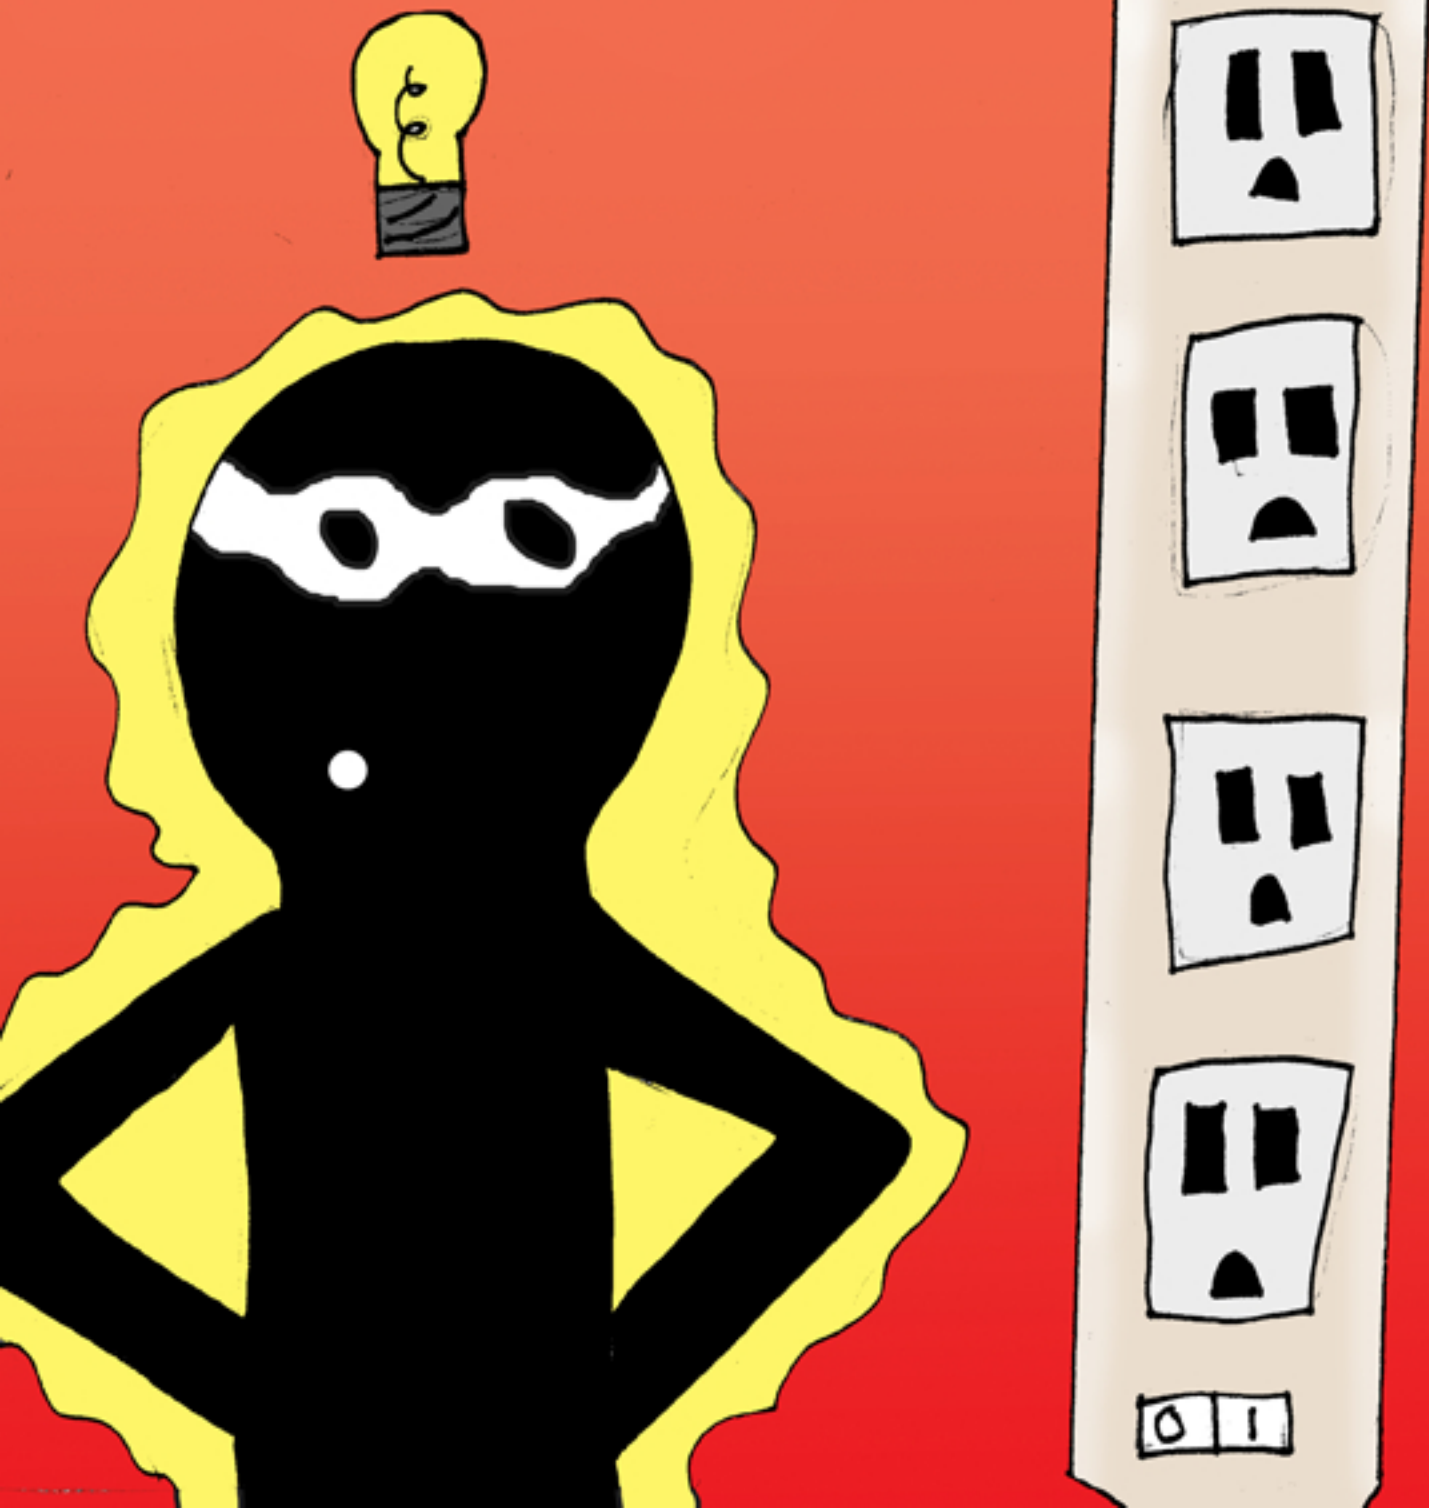

“I think that one way is that everyone is using so much electricity. And when they use electricity, they make more gas. Like when they have things plugged into the wall.”

So, electro man thought and thought about what he could do to reduce the amount of electricity that everybody uses.

Then BOOM! The idea hit him like ball! POWER STRIPS are the solution to his problem! One reason is because they can be turned on and off when you are not using them so it saves electricity.

So Electroman gave all of the good little boys and girls including you, power stripes and we saved so much electricity we saved tons of gasses from being released into the air!

Then Mother Earth was happy again!

