

Kapena Shim, is a Hawai'i Specialist Librarian for the Hawaiian Collection at the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa. He is also the archivist for the Hawaiian Legacy Foundation. Born in Honolulu and raised in Southern California, Kapena returned back home to Hawai'i to pursue a passion for 'ike Hawai'i (Hawaiian Knowledge); a journey that has instilled within him a belief that libraries connect us, connect us all to the rich legacies we are born into. Through libraries, Kapena has connected to the stories of his own ancestors, the legacies of service they have left, and his kuleana to continue those legacies for the betterment of the lahui. He holds a dual Bachelor of Arts in Hawaiian Studies and Hawaiian Language, and a Masters in Library and Information Science.
