RE: Skills covered this week and other news

Math: Students completed Chapter 1, "Addition and Subtraction Within 1,000." They took an end of chapter test. Tests will be sent home next week so you can see your child's work. Please sign the test, and return. Remember that you may go on-line to <http://www-k6.thinkcentral.com> to view the lessons done in class. Details for this was sent home on an FYI sheet.

Reading: Students are reading & responding to my prompts about the book, Judy Moody was in a Mood by Meagan McDonald. Students should be reading an independent book of choice. I have been asking students to bring their books to school so that I may listen to their reading and check for comprehension. Once I receive their usernames and passwords for Accelerated Reader, students will be able to take a comprehension quiz after reading their book.

Writing: We have been learning that sometimes we get ideas for writing stories from books. We have been listening to various mentor texts that model various ideas for stories. Students are making a list in their writer's notebook of different ideas for personal narrative pieces.
