

Orientation Lesson Plan
ELECTIVES & STUDY HALL
(25 minutes)

Objectives:

1. Explain rotational study period for elective classes
2. Describe class expectations
3. Practice TRIBES Agreements
4. Practice peer bonding activities
5. Recite 'ōlelo no'eau

Supplies:

- Write the orientation 'ōlelo no'eau on the white board

Agenda:

1. Welcome and introduce yourself, 8th grade teacher and student volunteers - “ ‘O Kumu _____ au.” (I am teacher _____.) Example: “Aloha! ‘O Kumu Murakami au.”
2. Ask students to take out their name placard for easier identification for you.
3. Review the TRIBES Agreements; ensure that agreements are followed.
4. Students are to recite the 'ōlelo no'eau for orientation.
5. Briefly explain units of study for your subject area; explain how rotational study period for elective classes and any other pertinent information.
6. If time permits, play an energizer or name game before or after the activity (5 minutes). Suggested energizers are available on the SAC Blog.

Closure:

1. Students are to locate their next class on the campus map.
2. Students are to check the area for their belongings.

Section A-2 teachers are asked to remind students that a snack will be provided at Kalama Dining Hall during recess. Students are to take their belongings and pick-up their snack from the dining hall and then after recess is pau, they are to proceed to their section 3 class.

Section A-4 teachers are asked to remind students to identify their lunch table by looking at their name tag before dismissing to lunch. Please also remind students to place their belongings in the cubby holes outside the dining hall before entering the dining hall.

Section A-7 teachers are asked to show the Bus Video, distribute and collect the orientation evaluations in addition to teaching their subject area lesson. Please leave evaluations in Tiffany Nascimento's box or deliver to the SAC, room 96. Section 7 teachers are also asked to collect any temporary student schedules and return Hoku Ho'ohuli. At the end of the period, teachers are asked to escort their students to Keawe Gym.