

Saving a File in PDF Format

You can save documents in PDF format from the Print menu of most Macintosh software applications. Documents that are saved in PDF (Portable Document Format) can be opened and viewed (but not edited) using Adobe Acrobat, a free, downloadable software application.

1. Open the file you wish to save in PDF format.

2. From the menu bar, select File > Print.

3. The Print window will appear. Click on PDF then Save as PDF in the lower left corner of the Print window.

4. The Save window will appear. By default, the file will be given the same name as the original file name. However, the .pdf extension will be placed at the end of the file name.

(Uncheck the Hide Extension option to view the file name with the .pdf extension.)

Click on Save to save the document in PDF format.

